Rescued From Death.
William J. Connelly, of Somerville, Mass., says: "In the fall of 1878 I was taken with a severe cold, followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and sleep, and was confined to my bed. In 1877 I was admitted to the hospital. The doctors said I had a hole in my lung as big as a half dollar. At one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. WILLIAM HALL'S BALM FOR THE LUNGS. I got a bottle, and to my surprise, I commenced to feel better, and to-day I feel better than for three years past. I write this hoping some one afflicted with this disease will take Dr. WILLIAM HALL'S BALM FOR THE LUNGS, and be convinced that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED. I can positively say it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness."

COAST CLIPPINGS.

All Cadelaria's hotels and Summer boarding houses are full of tourists. Silk worms are being raised with profit in Green valley, Sonoma county. Repairs are being made to the lower mill at Belleville, which would tend to the idea that it is to be started up soon.

The ten thousand copies of the Record and Attractions of Utah are now being bound and will be ready to send forward to Denver in a few days.

About 10,000 head of cattle bought by Ryan & Lang, have been marked at the stockyard of Robert May, near the Dalles this season. They have been driven east.

The Ohio Record says that a party of Good Templars, while out fishing in Iron Canyon, saw a crimson-colored snake eight feet long and as thick as a man's leg, which was catching fish for his breakfast.

The upper mill at Belleville has been engaged working ore from the Farrington & Moss mine, in Garfield District. Five stamps have been at work on it; the remaining 15 on ore from the Northern Belle.

From a single grain of wheat sown on McKinnin's ground on the east side of the Powder river, near Baker City, Or., grew 73 stalks, each nearly four feet in length, and the whole containing 4,380 grains of wheat.

The Bodie Free Press says: The Pluties hereabouts have more money than the balance of the tribe in other places. The squaws put in a good deal of time washing gold, and they wash out a good deal of money.

The Calico Print, San Bernardino county, says: We were shown some specimens of ore and nuggets of silver taken from the Silver Odeas assaying $18,000 to the ton. A quart of the same kind was sent to the mill in one of the sacks.

The Victorine mill at Kingston, Nev., continues running ten stamps, and saving gold enough on the amalgamated battery plates to pay all expenses. The other twenty stamps, which were arranged for dry crushing, are being changed to wet crushing.

Late reports from the Prospect Mountain tunnel, Eureka District, Nev., indicate the making of an important strike in that property. Some fine specimens of ore have been brought down and it is reported that nearly the whole face of the tunnel is in ore. At the Eureka tunnel the indications are also good, and there is a good lot of ore in sight.

A Candelaria mining expert went to examine an abandoned mine the other day, and was about cutting the pockets from some old overalls for sample sacks, when he discovered the seats of each pair had been patched and repatched. That settled it in his mind. If the former workers had been so poor, the mine must have been in sympathy then and remained so. He left for another location at once.

J. A. Lawrence, the bigamist, was brought into court at Astoria, Or., Saturday, pleaded guilty, and was remanded to the custody of the Sheriff. Miss Sloan, the girl with whom he eloped, came back a week ago, and has been at Astoria since. Lawrence's first wife obtained a divorce four months ago, and it is understood he will marry Miss Sloan, and that Judge Scott will inflict the lightest penalty, a fine of $500, which Lawrence's relatives in Chicago will pay.

A Las Vegas, N. M., dispatch says: The New Mexico, Central and Northern is the name of the latest railroad scheme. It has been organized under the laws of Michigan. The Company is at present represented here by W. G. Corbin, who states that it is their intention to build a narrow gauge road south from the southern terminus of the Denver and Rio Grande at El Moro to Trinidad, thence south through Long's canyon, Cimarron and Mora to Las Vegas, and from there to White Oaks.

A Tough Toad Story.

While the foundation or pillars for the railroad bridge across Flint river, at Montezuma, Ga., was being constructed, one of the workmen placed a toad in the crevice of a rock and fitted another rock over the crevice, and then made the abode of the toad air tight by the means of mortar. Sixteen years rolled by, when it became necessary to repair the pillar, which was done by the same workman that placed the toad in the pillar when it was first built. He remembered the circumstance, and, upon examination, found the toad still alive.

"I did have the pneumonia," said Mr. Robert Fletcher, of the Chicago Irish Tribune, "and was cured by St. Jacobs Oil. I think it a wonderful, never-failing remedy."

WANT TO SAVE A FIGHT.

Washoe county will, no doubt, present to the Republican Convention candidates for Governor, Congressman, Attorney-General and State Printer. It is not expected that Washoe will get all these offices, but she has them to offer for the party to choose from. The aspirants for the places mentioned, are canvassing the proposition of uniting on a plan to avoid any contest at the primaries. They think of making a proposition to the people to select first-class men to the convention, none of whom has any particular enmity to either man. The delegation to be guided by the needs of the party, and the sense of the convention, and if the demand be for a Washoe Governor or Congressman or Attorney-General or State Printer or any two or three, the Washoe delegation would work for them. The plan has the advantage of uniting the warring factions, but it has met with opposition and may be upset yet. If the candidates would name twenty-five leading citizens, none of whom is the enemy of either, or pledged to either candidate, and give the voters the opportunity to choose five for delegates, it would give better satisfaction. Let the five receiving the highest vote be the delegates. If no move is made soon a citizens' meeting will have to be called to act.

VITICULTURAL REPORT.

From the second annual report of the Board of State Viticultural Commissioners the Sacramento Record-Union learns that the two years' work of the Board to June 30, 1882, was a marked and beneficial change in the viticultural interests of the State. The officers say in that time fully 40,000 acres of vineyard have been added to the vine-growing area. With the $14,000 granted the Board by the Legislature, it claims to have been the prime cause of the planting 40,000 acres with vines, the value of which will exceed $10,000,000 within four years. This is certainly a practical showing. The report at length, and with this fact for a text, goes into the whole subject of grape growing, the insect enemies of the vines, the extent of our wine producing, raisin curing, etc. It is a full and statistical exhibit, and demands a careful examination.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

* United States District Judge Sabin told a GAZETTE reporter last evening that Eureka would send an unpledged delegation to the Republican State Convention composed of the best men in the county. He said the delegation would come here prepared to support the strongest man, whoever he may be. When Hon. W. W. Bishop was in this part of the State the last time he found many friends who urged him to enter the fight for Governor. Mr. Bishop thought favorably of the proposition, and said that he might yet conclude to take a hand, but Judge Sabin says now that Bishop will not now allow his name to be presented to the Convention under any circumstances.

The interesting discovery has been made and verified that aerolites contain organic remains. Over 600 specimens have been analyzed by one man and the porous shells of the most ancient corallines have been identified. The stones analyzed fell in all parts of the world, and at different times, but resembled each other strongly. The belief is, therefore, involuntary, that life did exist on the body which broke up in the aerolites, which occasionally sends a fragment into our atmosphere. How many forms and to what height it reached, is all speculation. Will it ever be known?

The Carson Index says: The prevalent impression in Storey county is that Governor Kinkaid will not be in the field when the convention assembles, and that Mr. Strother will have the delegation from that county solid. Some are of the impression, however, that General Evans of Reno may yet make a diversion in Storey. Dr. E. B. Harris has many personal friends and perhaps will have some strength in the delegation.

Press Dispatches to EVENING GAZETTE.

EASTERN.

Hear's Resonance.

WORCESTER, August 15.

Senator Hear has addressed a letter to the people of Massachusetts, giving his reasons for voting for the River and Harbor bill. He states the bill passed honestly and fearlessly, and that appropriations of this sort are among the best made by Congress, because honestly expended under the superintendence of a Board of Engineers. He says it is absurd to say these harbors and bays and great rivers are not to be accessible to districts, towns or factories in their vicinity; or that it is not proper to exercise national authority to do so. You might as well say that while Boston harbor is national it should not be so dredged. Ships could go to its wharves because the wharves are local. You might as well, in building the Boston and Albany Railroad across the State, refuse to have side tracks at cities and towns because they are local. There is one respect in which this river and harbor money is best spent of all public appropriations, save only pensions. There are vast spaces in this country where the United States Government has been known for a generation only in the character of a conqueror or tax gatherer. It is good that they should see this great and beneficent power in its character of benefactor; but it is also well for the people in those sections of the country who have been educated for half a century to look on the National Government with jealousy and dislike, and who have never felt its terrible power in war, in wasted fields and desolate homes, to learn to associate its image with beneficial works which join them with a great system of national commerce.

Press Comments on Dorsey's Letter.

NEW YORK, August 16.

The Tribune has the following editorial: The suspicion grows apace that the impudent Dorsey letter, alleged to have been sent to Garfield, previous to his inauguration, was never sent to him at all, and was never written in deed, until after his death. It is argued with much show of plausibility that whatever else Dorsey may be, he is not a fool, and no man but a fool would send such an insulting letter to a new President, whose good will he was anxious to secure. The growing belief is that Dorsey has written the letter and ante-dated it in the hope of thereby winning the sympathy of Arthur, and his influence in the star route prosecutions. Colonel Bliss says Dorsey, at the time his letter was dated was expressing sentiments directly opposite to those of the letter, and instead of being friendly to Conkling was inclined to speak harshly of the grasping demands. But whether the letter is a production of this year or last it is none the less valuable as the revelation of the stalwart character and sentiment if it was written this year to please Arthur. It was written by a Stalwart, who pided from his experience what kind of a letter would be most acceptable to the Stalwart tastes, and tried his best to compose it. From beginning to end it is purely a Stalwart production, and its date is of comparatively slight importance.

A Washington Street Scene.

WASHINGTON, August 16.

At four o'clock yesterday afternoon a handsome carriage and pair of horses stood before the Fifteenth street entrance to the Treasury Department. Within sat a lady, elegantly attired, dignified and with a pleasant face. On the side walk was a gray-bearded man in his shirt sleeves leaning from one foot to the other, waving one hand with a pen in it high in air, shaking his clenched fist in the face of the lady through the carriage window, while he sang out in a voice that was audible at the Riggs house opposite: "How dare you come to the Treasury with this attempt to blackmail me, you miserable creature? I have a mind to have you arrested." The male actor was Hon. Bennett Raynor of North Carolina, Solicitor of the Treasury. The lady was some person whose identity has not yet been established, but is supposed to be one of the numerous class of female lobbyists and claim agents who beset the Treasury.

Dorsey's Letters to Garfield.

WASHINGTON, August 15.

The letter from Dorsey to the late President Garfield excites some comment. General Swain, who was at Mentor as the confidential friend of the President elect at the time the letter purports to have been written, says he never saw it until it appeared in print. He received several letters from Dorsey himself, and supposed all the letters written by the ex-Senator were sent to him. He regards it as somewhat singular that he never heard of the receipt of such a missive.

Death of Senator Hill.

ATLANTA, Ga., August 16.

About 2 o'clock this morning Senator Hill was found to be rapidly sinking; his breathing was with difficulty. He continued to sleep, however, and at a few minutes after six his death occurred without a struggle. He died from exhaustion.

For several hours before Senator Hill's death it was evident that the end was near. Soon after breakfast his family was summoned to his bedside. There was present at his death the following persons: Mrs. Hill, Dr. H. H. Jr., and his wife, Dr. R. P. Ridley and wife, Senator Hill's daughter, Chas. D. Hill, his son, two nephews of the Senator, and Dr. Wright, the attending surgeon. Four hours before Senator Hill's death, he made a sign for a hypodermic injection of morphia, which was administered. He appeared to be awake and conscious several times, but could not speak. At 5:15 he was apparently awake, when he closed his eyes gently and died without even a tremor. The funeral will take place Friday.

Garfield's Letters.

WASHINGTON, August 16.

The Sunday Gazette in its next issue will publish several columns additional correspondence purporting to be the letters passed between ex-Senator Dorsey and President Garfield, from the date of Garfield's election to the time of his inauguration. The publication of these letters will create a sensation throughout the country. A prominent Western Republican, who has seen and read certain of these letters, says they contain sentiments indicating the profoundest esteem and warmest affection for Dorsey; that in one of them Garfield refers to his heavy expenses growing out of the campaign and entertaining thousands of friends and office seekers who see him at Mentor; his pressing need of money, and asking "My Dear Dorsey" for a loan of a few thousand dollars. Garfield's request for a loan was quickly responded to.

Pennsylvania Politics.

PITTSBURG, August 15.

There is no longer any doubt but that Cameron's friends are negotiating for a transfer of the votes of the labor party to General Weaver. The head rulers of the movement are now in Philadelphia, but some outcroppings are discernible in this part of the State. The plan is after distributing a sufficient amount of money to influence all leaders who may be susceptible to that sort of argument, then a convention is to be held at Philadelphia with the rounders and feelers out to vote the real labor men, and take such action in regard to the State ticket as will throw the party, or as much of it as can be transferred, into the arms of Cameron, for Weaver's benefit.

After the Robbers.

Business houses and shops are all closed, and their owners joining in the chase.

FOREIGN.

Lieutenant Dariens' Reconnaissance.—Another Encounter With Bedouins.—General Woolsey's Proclamation. BERLIN, August 16.

It is reported that Count Von Munster, German ambassador to England, now at Babelsburg, had a long interview to-day at that place with Emperor William, principally about Egypt affairs. Von Munster expressed the opinion that England could not act otherwise than she has. The Emperor spoke warmly on the subject, and was pleased with the Count's interview.

ALEXANDRIA, August 16.

Lieutenant Dariens tells of his reconnaissance as follows: Lieutenant Hamilton and myself proceeded very cautiously for about 10 minutes, without escort, and arrived at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, within 800 yards of the enemy's camp. The night was very dark and we were unable to get details of their position. We therefore decided to get in a position which would enable us to see the camp when daylight broke. We had not moved 80 yards when the enemy's picket saw us and showed a bright light which was directly answered along the line. We ran about a mile and entered the lake about a hundred yards. The enemy pursued and spread themselves along the lake, completely cutting off our retreat. Their horses seemed afraid to face the water in the dark. The enemy's system of signaling with light appeared excellent. Our every movement was flashed by the nearest man and answered along the line. I presume the enemy did not fire in order not to alarm any force we might have had. We tied white handkerchiefs to a pole in expectation of being captured, but, after making another attempt to escape, we went 100 yards into the lake, and in five feet of water, the enemy evidently losing sight of us. At 4:45 we rose, and, having made a long detour, returned to the English camp.

ALEXANDRIA, August 16.

Colonel Gerardo, who rode out this morning on a reconnaissance, succeeded in making a sketch of the enemy's position.

The transport has handed over his office to the native authorities. European residents consider this proceeding an wise one.

ALEXANDRIA, August 16.

An encounter between the British mounted patrol and a party of 500 Bedouins occurred this morning near Ramleh. Five of the latter were killed.

Gen. Sir Garnet Wolseley, with the authority of the Khedive, has issued a proclamation to the people of Egypt, stating the sole object of the British was to restore the authority of the Khedive. It says all peaceful inhabitants will be kindly treated, mosques will be respected and all supplies paid for. General Wolseley adds that he will be glad to receive all chiefs who are disposed to assist in supporting the rebellion. It is his belief that the hopelessness of the struggle is spreading among the Egyptians.

The British commander at Meks received overtures for the surrender of the entire infantry battalion if favorable terms can be obtained.

Parnell's Reception.

DUBLIN, August 16.

The city hall is densely crowded to-day on the occasion of the presentation of the freedom of the city to Parnell and Dillon. Nearly every Mayor in Ireland except Mayor Belfast, is present. Storey, a radical member of Parliament, and all Home Rule members of Parliament are also present. The Conservative members of the Dublin municipality were absent. When the rate of corporation was called, at the mention of Grey's name, the whole audience rose and cheered enthusiastically for several minutes. The Lord Mayor declared that Grey's sentence was equivalent to six months' imprisonment. He advised the people to be most careful and guarded in their language, as they were in the midst of a great crisis. Parnell, in returning thanks to the corporation for the freedom of the city, said: In view of the recent events it was clear that the liberty of speech no longer existed in Ireland. He and his associates, however, would take care to bring the subject before the House of Commons at the first opportunity. Meanwhile, the Irish party would peacefully continue to educate the people to govern themselves and advise them to accept whatever reform might be offered them while pushing on towards legislative independence. He advised the higher classes, while they had time, to join in and endeavor to bring about a better state of affairs. The people could no longer tolerate their present degradation. Dillon followed Parnell. He quoted statistics showing that Ireland, especially Dublin, had been economically injured by the Union.

Ireland Gags the Press.

DUBLIN, August 16.

E. Dwyer Grey, member of Parliament and proprietor of the Freeman's Journal, was to-day sentenced to three months imprisonment and a fine of five hundred pounds, for contempt of court in publishing the letter of O'Brien, accusing the jury which convicted Francis Hines of the murder of John Doolough, of being drunk the night previous to the day the verdict was given, and an article commenting thereon. O'Brien and Davitt were put out of court. Grey, after being sentenced, was handed over to Crown-Prison. The decision of the Court caused a great sensation. Grey was Lord Mayor of Dublin for 1880, and was nominated a second time for 1881, but declined the nomination.

General Indignation Over Grey's Arrest. DUBLIN, August 16.

Lord Mayor Dawson has arranged to call a special meeting of the corporation Monday, with a view of considering measures to secure the release of Grey. Crowds are assembling around the statue of O'Connell, and speeches expressing indignation at the sentence are being made.

How it Looks to a Stranger.

A gentleman from New York City, happened in at the Wine House last evening, and was much surprised to find that Reno supported a saloon like the Wine House. "Why," said he, "Stokes' new saloon in New York is not much ahead of this one, and I doubt if he carries near the stock that is to be seen at this place." It is a fact that Chelovich has one of the best stocks on the coast, and you can not call for anything in the shape of a drink that Phil or Steve can't mix.

Dress and Fashion.

It is now considered quite necessary to have two distinct kinds of wrapper. One must fall loose and very full, and is gathered around the neck. This is for early morning wear, and may be of flannel, cashmere, foulard or linen goods, according to the season for which it is made. The second wrapper is much more dressy, and is extensively made this summer of Chinese silk, trimmed with braid bands of tulle in red or blue, or with bands embroidered in those colors.

Surrendered their Charter.

The members of Union Lodge, No. 4, Independent Order of Good Templars, of Carson City, have concluded to surrender their charter, as the membership of the lodge is not sufficient to keep it up. This lodge was one of the oldest in the State, having been organized on the 25th of April, 1885, and it is to be regretted that times are so sadly out of joint as to render the suspension necessary.

The Masher Mashed.

There were plenty of seats in the car, but as he walked down the aisle he looked sharply to the right and left until he reached a pretty girl who was sitting alone.

"Seat engaged, miss?" he asked, with a knowing wink.

"No-no, sir," stammered the girl, looking round in dismay.

Down he plumped and braced himself for the campaign. He was a regular passenger, and held his commutation ticket in his hand.

"Shall I open—?"

"Tickets!" roared the conductor, who had watched him from afar.

The regular passenger smiled sweetly on the pretty girl and put up his pasteboard, out of which two sides were promptly snipped.

"Tickets!"

"Hold on!" protested the regular passenger; "you punched this twice. This lady isn't with me."

"Sorry," replied the conductor; "but you walked in, sat down and went to work on the regular married style. Supposed, of course, it was your wife. Too late now. Take a vacant seat next time. Tickets!"

And the passengers went to the conductor and asked him to drink and offered him cigars, and bought out the train boy for him.

"I knew they weren't married," said he, as he quipped at a flask of extra prime. "I've seen him before, but this is the first time it cost him a couple of dollars to play it."

"Do you know who the lady is?" asked an inquisitive man.

"My wife, gentlemen," replied the conductor, and even the flask chuckled a merry "glug glug" as he spoke.

Arrested for Arson.

John Boynton has had his divorced wife, Mrs. Boynton, arrested on a charge of arson for setting fire to his haystack on Monday night. He says the proof is conclusive. She was seen passing Ed. Bates' ranch at sunrise Tuesday morning, dressed in a pair of overalls a blouse or drilling "jumper," with a red handkerchief tied around her head. Footprints were tracked from the stack to her residence on the south side of the river. When Constable Avery made the arrest, Mrs. Boynton made an excuse to go to her stable, or some out building. Avery consented, when he discovered that she was trying to hide her shoes. Avery obtained possession of the shoes, which were run over at the heel, showing that the shoe found in Mrs. Boynton's possession fitted the track found near the stack and in the road perfectly. It would seem that Mrs. Boynton is in a tight box.

Modesto's Merry Mosquito.

The Modesto Journal thus muses on the Modesto mosquito: "And now the merry Modesto mosquito makes the midnight melodious with his music as he meanders 'mid the maledictions of his maddened martyrs who murmur unmeaningly their muttered maledictions. Meanwhile Morpheus makes mortal man miserably melancholy by marshaling mysteriously his manifold messengers and moodily marching into the midst of the morning." Can it be that mercy has throttled justice in that quiet little town?

Garfield Picture.

Governor Kinkaid, says the Appeal, has received a splendid picture of the late President Garfield, which is said to be the best issued, surrounded by the most gorgeous frame imaginable. It is a present from E. N. Robinson of Eureka. Anyone desiring to see a perfect work of art should not fail to visit the Governor's office.

A Step in the Right Direction.

It is quite fashionable for Reno dry goods merchants to employ lady clerks. S. M. Jamison & Co., C. A. Loomis and L. Barnett employ them. It is useless to say that they make excellent ones and are always ready for business. They are always on hand in the morning, and are never troubled with picnic headaches.

is done with the greatest neatness and dispatch.

Borax and Salt.

The California True Flaxseed of last Saturday says: The little station of Rhodes on the line of the railroad, is growing in population, and the manufacture of borax and salt is becoming one of some importance. A new 14-foot tubular boiler is being put into position to afford greater steam facility. Most of the steam is to be used in the borax boiling tanks, of which two will soon be added. A small stationary engine uses a portion of the steam in grinding salt for table and other uses. On Sunday last a 20-ton shipment of salt was made, and 30 tons on the day following. About 100 tons are piled up on the platform, awaiting shipment. The salt is put up in sacks and barrels, and the sizes of the packages embrace every conceivable marketable size. The whole place has an air of bustle and activity that is pleasant to contemplate, and will be even greater before long.

The "Loco Weed."

A Comstocker who says that he has read that during the past eighteen months Colorado has paid $3,783 in bounties for exterminating the loco weed, wants to know if he can get some of the seed by sending to the Patent Office at Washington. He says he wants to introduce it in this vicinity.
